“Thinking of you on your birthday, as you celebrate your ninth year in Heaven...

“Swashbuckling”

*The haircuts, the suits, the charming smile...
Times we laughed about the “handsome profile.”*

*Swashbuckling, I believe was the word that you used;
As I stood there laughing, completely amused.*

*“Little Man” then and “Big Al” now
I lost track of the time in between somehow.*

*You had your own way – unique from others
I truly admired your style, Big Brother.*

*On the field you were a superstar
Even off the field, you still set the bar.*

*I remember being young, arguing about it all-
The last bag of chips, or whose turn to make calls.*

*I drove you crazy & you got on my nerves
Then we got older & along came life’s curves.*

*Dating, finances, which college to attend
You joined the Armed Forces, with the bravest of men.*

*Army man, football star, protector of your sis
Even battling illness, you still didn’t quit.*

*How to go on without you- I truly don’t know
I hear you: “handle your business” like a pro.*

So, if you should ever look down from the clouds-

Baby Girl will do her very best to make you proud.
