“Wow auntie, I've known you for a long time. You named all of your children yourself except one and that was the one you let me name. That has always meant something special to me. I can honestly say you had a heart of gold. Always the same. I always admired your mom skills, you'd say it just loud enough and just once and them cousins of mine sat down, lol I use to always say, how does she do that? You will be missed aunt Bren. I love you fam. Unk....Neen

“ My dear, sweet, cousin Brenda. My cousin/sister. We grew up together very close. But when we became adults life, raising children and grandchildren didn't allow us to come together so often. But we remained close in our hearts. We would talk on the phone on occasion, catching up. When Brooks sent me a message telling me Brenda was in the hospital, in which I had no knowledge of. I called her immediately after he and I hung up. Our conversation was very happy and joyful. We talked about when we're were children and what was going on in the present. She kept saying over and over, she was so glad to hear from me. My heart is broken. I feel like a piece of me is missing. I love you so much my dear, sweet cousin. I will see you on the other shore. Praying for her husband Gary, children, grandchildren, siblings, and the rest of the family and friends.
