“ I saw this obituary and didn't believe it. I've been with your nephew Travis Chisnell for about 20 years now and I sadly don't have many memories with you and if we did I was young and visited Mary Jane alot but I you're nephew after I told him and showed him you're obituary all Travis could really remember and tell me with a little shiver when telling me the stories of spending nights over you're house and all he could think about and worry about was you're pythons that he was telling me and I couldn't help but giggle a little but he wad so serious and scared in his voice he might not make it thru the night without getting eaten from your Andaconda haha! And he mentioned you was one lady that took no Crap from anyone and you wad never scared to stand up for what you believed in and what was right! He was telling me you was one tough lady that was one not to mess with! I am definitely saddened and disappointed that we never really got to have many memories together. You definitely sound like my type of company and people! Sorry we never really came to visit much or ever and I am sincerely sorry and I hope you can forgive us for that! I do hope you rest in peace now with God in heaven with the angels 🙏 Now you're in heaven with no more pain or sickness and no more pain ever no more sadness! I can only imagine you're in heaven looking down on us in your glory days running things in heaven looking beautiful as always! And happy pain-free and shake you're head everytime you see us all down here making bad choices or just fooling around being silly . I know you will always be up there looking down on all of us and being our guarding angel and keeping us safe! R.I.P Beautiful Love always, Brandie Chisnell & Travis Chisnell and the of course the kids Hayden, Hunter & Zoey💕
