“ I first met Carolyn (aka) Jamaica in the late 1970s while working at nursing homes. She loved working with the patients and always went that extra mile to make them happy. Carolyn and I lost contact for some years but when we ran into each other; she hadn't changed. She still carried that big smile, still loved her jewelry and her lipstick. Carolyn and I shared what we were going through in life and we both were fighting the cancer demon. When I tell you that lady was a fighter and refused to let anything get her down; I tell you no lie. Carolyn was my hero and irregardless of what cards she was dealt, she was ready for the battle. Every time we went our separate ways God would make so that we would run right back into each others life. Carolyn I will miss you but I'll always cherish what we had and our long positive talks at night. This is not good bye, this is only till we meet again. Rest in peace my friend. I love you. I drove Carolyn to her appointments the last year, yes she was a fighter. We had some good times during those days and I became attached to her laughs. I remember the first few times that I would go to pick her up the phone call would be answered by "This is Jamaica" I will miss Carolyn, she was a sweet young lady.
