“May God lift your heavy hearts, and heal your grieving souls. May the spirit of your beautiful Denise wrap you tightly in her love, allow your memories to serve as a comfort and a healer, always remember who and how she lived and loved. God promised us eternal life this is what we all strive for... God Bless your family. Love, Joy Washington & family.”

“ My heart is heavy, as I hold back the tears. I loved Denise, and remember her so well with her mother and aunt attending and participating in church services at an early age. My prayers are with all of her family members, and the joy in knowing that she received Christ as her Lord and Savior. So, Denise is now at rest, John 3:15 says, "that everyone who believes in him may have eternal life" (NIV). Although, I have not seen Denise recently, I have always loved her. May the comfort of the Holy Spirit and the Grace, of Our Father, keep you at peace, and with pleasant memories of Denise.

“ It seems like yesterday when i saw this little girl accompany her mother and her aunt to People's Baptist Church. However, it was not yesterday; it was 1974. What ever time it is that we have with people that we care about is never enough. We lose people and we cherish the memories that they deposit in our lives. i shall continue in prayer for your family as you receive God's healing virtue for your hearts. "Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal".

Just as my brother, Rev. Lawrence Bobo eloquently said, I too remember this gorgeous "little girl" (a "mini me" of her beautiful Mother) walking down the aisle every Sunday at Peoples...for me, Church didn't really start, and the "family" was not all there until I saw Albertine and Denise (followed closely somewhere by beautiful Aunt Bobbi)! :-)
Those were GOOD times! But for now, to be honest, my heart aches...it doesn't seem real...and my prayers are with you as you say goodnight to "our" precious baby girl...Oh, but remember that a great and "good morning" follows every "good night"...I love you all...Debbie Paschal (Evans)
