“ I was very sorry to hear about Judy's passing. I received the information late and will not be able to attend the service. My prayers go out to her family. I remember how happy she was to get married several years ago. I also remember how she loved talking about her daughter and grandchildren.

Although I had not seen Judy since I retired, seeing her beautiful smile on the obituary brought back her wonderful presence.

May God bless and comfort her family.

“ I was a co-worker and friend of Judy's for many years. She was a very outgoing caring person who truly loved her family. She was down-to-earth and a straight shooter, who I confided in many times as we shared stories of our families and of course the many pictures of our grandchildren. Above all else, she had an abiding faith and trust in her Savior that sustained her through the years. Rest in peace my friend, until we meet again.

“ The term "friend" is a small word, but has so much meaning. I hope that I can find the right words to describe Judy; my buddy and friend and what she meant to me.

Friendship

*Each of has a hidden place
Somewhere deep within ourselves;
A place where we go to get away,
To think things through,
To be alone, to be ourselves.*

*This unique place, where we confront our deepest feelings,
Becomes a storehouse of all our hopes,
All our needs, all our dreams,
And even our unspoken fears,
It encompasses the essence of who we are and what we want to be.*

*But now and then, whether by chance or design, someone discovers a way into that place we thought was ours alone.
And we allow that person to see, to feel and to share
All the reason, all the uncertainty
And all the emotion we've stored up there.*

*That person adds new perspective to our hidden realm,
Then quietly settles down in his/her own corner of our special place,
Where a bit of himself/herself will stay forever.*

And we call that person friend.....

“ Judy was a special person. She always had a smile when she spoke of her Sherwyn and grandkids. When we last spoke on the telephone about what she was going through she told me she was very grateful to have her daughter by her side through all of this, and how truly blessed she was to have her. Our thoughts and prayers are with you at this difficult time. May God Bless You!
