“ Whats up Tracy, it been a long time since I have seen you, and now you have gone on. Its a sad day, and a blessed one. Its sad because you are no longer here with your loved ones. Its a blessed day because you have gone on to a much better place, where there is no hurt, no pain, no worry, or sorrow. You will now continue on as the angel that you are and look down on us.

“ The last time I saw Tracy she was very upbeat. We talked, laughed and reflected on past memories. She spoke of her girls and wanted to fight for them. Tracy fought the fight until God called her home. My prayers and thoughts are with you all. I can't be there today but know that I'm thinking about you all and I'm thanking God that she's no longer in pain and suffering. God is a healer and I pray that with time, he will heal your hearts and allow you to reflect on all the time you shared with her as daughter, sister, mother, niece, etc. Love Kesha

“ I'd like to extend my heartfelt prayers to the family at their time of sorrow. I know a song that goes, "don't cry for me, don't shed a tear, the time we've shared...", reflect on the time that you shared with Tracy, remember and cherish those precious times. May God be the comforter that you need at this time in your life. God Bless you all and I pray that God welcomes Tracy home, to a place of no pain and discomfort, a place of love and happiness. God Bless You All.

“ To the Hamler-Burton Families,

Heaven is rejoicing now that your Angel have arrived. Know that Tracy is now in God's care and she's alright.

Comfort and love one another during this trying time. Let us all be faithful unto God so that we can all see her on the other side.
