“ *My cousin; you have touched my heart as so many other departed family members has done in the past. Though they say we can find comfort in knowing you no longer suffer. In a way that sounds uplifting but love has no knobs, switches to turn off and on. We the living will still mourn, cry, have heart aches until healing through time.
I did not know the embrace hug and expression of love a while back would be our last; What better way to say goodbye.*
